

Bijjective approaches in the study of partition identities and permutation statistics

Shishuo Fu

College of Mathematics and Statistics, Chongqing University

Abstract

In this talk, we will sample several results in the realm of partition identities and permutation statistics, for which we have been able to supply bijective proofs, highlighting the usefulness of such approaches in broadening our perspective on the original results and in enabling generalizations.

Keywords: Bijective proof; partition identities; permutation statistics.